The aim of this study was to assess the role of mucosal interleukin (IL)-4, IL-5, IL-8, and IL-10 levels in the pathogenesis of acute gastroenteritis. Mucosal biopsies were taken from the colon and duodenum of eight children and six adults during a follow-up period of 8 days after the acute episode. Cytokine levels were measured by enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay and correlated with clinical signs and symptoms, and changes in immunoglobulin A. All cytokine levels in the biopsies of the two groups during the acute phase were normal. During convalescence, IL-8 levels were significantly higher (p < 0.05).
