. Or download the video directly from here What was that thing that was killed by a gamma ray bomb in some movie/show? I don't know, but I really want to find out. Did I mention it comes with an adjustable muzzle velocity dial? Now I can actually afford one of these bad boys, woohoo!! :D And if you have the cash, the hit on this bad boy is only a few dollars. A video posted by Ferris (@ferrissward) on Aug 3, 2014 at 2:45pm PDT I might start building this bad boy in the coming weeks. From a string of pictures I took during my stay in the caves. Most of them were either too dark or blurry and just couldn't be used. But I did manage to come up with some nice shots, and hope to get them into some kind of order. Also this video was done in roughly the same time as the one I posted in my previous post about the night I spent in the caves. I hope you'll find it worth your while. On a particularly rough day we were almost out of food, had only 2 liters of water and basically had to live on only some meat and a few potatoes we stole from the locals. We only had enough light for 2 hours to work on the deck during the day, and in total darkness for the rest. I think those were our hardest days. When the sun was in our eyes, we just had to go for it, run around, shoot, eat... A couple of days later we were all healthy again, filled up with food and water, and were able to finish the deck. The story is not over yet though, because I will now have to post what I found on the inside. It's not anything special, but it's my first serious underwater exploration ever. I just hope you will like it. We had pretty good luck that day, but it was a bad decision from the point of view of having the high winds blowing into our cave, so we had to move into a small cave somewhere next to the river.
