nikki North of 25th Street, surrounded by a creek and not a parking lot, sits a single-story brick residence, with a fence, a mailbox, and a chain-link security gate. In some cities, the property would be little more than an eyesore. In Portland, it is a food shelf that's been home to single mothers, domestic violence survivors, and those who need a break from the world. Located behind a medical building at the intersection of N 25th St. and Maine Street, the Healthy Healthy Hack Space is nestled in a neighborhood of vacant lots, old warehouses, and riverfront pockets. Both clients and volunteers d4474df7b8
