I have a comand 1.0. c221 549 927 00 20 00 and I don't know if I can update it. I'd like to see the amount of gas that I have left and can get a alert if I get low. I'm using an S300, so the navigation software I have doesn't support this feature. Mar 26, 2010 I have a 2012-2013 (2013 model year) BMW X6 and the Comand 2.0/2.5 with the most recent software update. Currently in Germany I have the 18.7.07 version. I can upgrade to Comand 2.1 but unfortunately I don't have the clips that the channels on the roof do can be replaced. I am thinking of replacing my roof channel to a radio module in order to update to the current firmware (22.10.16) but I wanted to know first if it is possible to update to this firmware with the Comand installed in the car. The reason I'm asking is that the Comand does not seem to work at all when I run the software update. It is just running the app screen, but I can't control the vehicle (steering, brakes etc) with the steering wheel buttons. If I try to control the vehicle it is like driving it as a manual with the steering wheel and the pedals, but the pedals will not do anything. So I'm wondering if it is possible to do the update, but my current Comand system is not recognized as I can't control it to be able to do the update and I can't get my hands on the firmware update CD.
