Gene therapy is currently an expanding field in the research of therapeutic products. The first clinical trials are currently underway and many methods have been developed for gene delivery. Viral gene delivery is considered to be the most efficient method for gene delivery at the moment, however, its use is limited due to safety issues. Non-viral gene delivery has become an attractive option for gene therapy due to its potential of multiple applications and lower cytotoxicity. In addition, ligand-assisted gene delivery has emerged as an efficient method of non-viral gene delivery that may become an attractive method in the near future. In this review, we have described recent advancements of ligand-assisted gene delivery methods and their applications.Q: Extract a substring from a string by recognizing the sequence of letters I have a string: str = "[this,is,a,sentence]" What would be the best way to extract the substring "is a sentence"?
