The fundamental principle of Photoshop's document creation is that it should contain separate layers. To merge images and create layers, you need to "watermark" one of them. This is the old standby of adding text to a digital image. It's an essential technique that we use on our own images for copyright, attribution and other reasons, and we'll use it to watermark images used as cover art in this book. To create this simple watermark, we're going to start with a background image. Because it's so simple, we're going to create an adjustment layer. Add an adjustment layer to add a dark color (any shade) to the document. Choose the Brush tool and click on the color picker. The left side of the tool tip indicates the color chosen, but the right side displays the color of your selected option. If you don't have the Brush tool active, click the tool icon with the small brush to select it. Now choose a color — any color, but blue is a popular choice because it's so similar to the color of water, so we're going to use that in this example. You can change the opacity of the color for a more subtle effect. At the top of the Layers panel, click the New Adjustment Layer button to create an adjustment layer that you can paint on. Use this tool to add a simple dark gray, watercolor-like wash to the background image. You can change the opacity of the layer to change the effect of the watermark. You can also add text to a new document. Unlike the watermark, where you're only adding a simple color to the background image, the text should be moved and rotated to create a symbol or short text. This symbol or text can also be positioned and rotated on the background image. If you want to add text and adjust the size, position, and rotation of the symbol or text, a vector format is better than a r

Q: 404 Error after create cookie in PHP i try to implement cookie in my php page to get previous page's data, I am using header('Location: '.$_SERVER['HTTP_REFERER'].'?lastPage=1'); this page is login.php and after sign in i redirect it to some pages when i am in another page than login page and go back to login page now my cookie show 1 as i want but problem is when it time to redirect it show 2 in cookie here is code i used Saturday, January 31, 2013 I'm not sure if it's the old fashioned nature of the painting or the use of actual house paint on a canvas but this time I think I've painted a picture that will live on for a few years because I love the results! What a shame it was too dark to photograph earlier. Thursday, January 29, 2013 When I saw this image at the New Trail Auction in the pound I knew immediately that I wanted to paint it for our country hall in Maryland. As it happens, I had brought a painting of a very similar view but only had one of the 3 matching colors I needed to finish the job so it sat patiently for me to decide what to do with it.
