FirePlotter is a tool designed to reduce the risks of your firewall being breached and provides you with an easy way to monitor the sessions in real-time. Simply put, the app enables you to check out all incoming and outgoing traffic in real-time. Considering that all traffic is being monitored and logged, the application can also help you get valuable insight on how you can manage the bandwidth more efficiently. The direct advantages arising from bandwidth management is to reduce inappropriate usage by employees along with potential security breaches, virus or hacker attacks while they occur. At the same time, the utility can help the IT department to identify unfamiliar connections and stumble across bandwidth hoggers. As you explore various issues related to the quality of service and Internet usage, you can also manage to cut down on costs associated with your network in the long run. The area is home to the Napier Boys' High School, New Zealand's only boarding school. Takana was the home of the Takana Institute, which was built in 1882. It is now a museum, owned by the Otago Museum. The building is within the site of the former Tuna Lake, once home to a large tuna cannery. The Tuna Lake Resort operated from 1936 to 1988, and the old cannery building is a museum today. Education Takana School was the first high school in Napier. Takana College was the first secondary school in Napier and was a girls school. In 1965 Takana College was split in half, with the high school moving to the west side of the city in Takana and the other part being made up of St. Mary's Convent School, from Napier. The St. Mary's Convent School area has been renamed Kauri School. References Category:Suburbs of Napier, New Zealand1. Field of the Invention This invention generally relates to the routing of data in a computer network. More particularly, this invention is related to a method and apparatus for separating network traffic into classes that are treated differently, and a method and apparatus for assigning priorities to such classes. 2. Background Art As personal computers and other computing devices become more prevalent in the workplace, more and more people find themselves dealing with computing networks on a daily basis. To further complicate matters, networks are no longer just an adjunct to computing, but the heart of computing operations. To make this possible, networks are now constructed with the intent to allow the users of the network to share information, such as data, programs, and other content. However, unlike their predecessors, which were generally used for providing limited connectivity to peripher
