Maybe he's just trying to stir up hate? That's what some people are saying about Rick Santorum's comments yesterday about the 47 percent. "There are 47 percent of the people who will vote for the president no matter what," Santorum said, "who are absolutely dependent on government, who believe that they are victims, who believe the government has a responsibility to care for them, who believe that they are entitled to health care, to food, to housing, to you-name-it. That that's an entitlement. And the government should give it to them. And they will vote for this president no matter what." On "Hannity," Santorum responded, "I'm not running to be their advocate. I'm running to be the advocate of middle class Americans." Are we about to learn that Rick Santorum and Mitt Romney don't mean what they say? Or are they setting themselves up for a Trumpian media meltdown? It's not clear what he is talking about, but Santorum says it's true. Santorum on CNN Sunday: pressure wound therapy with a custom-made negative pressure wound chamber for the management of diabetic wounds: a randomized controlled trial. We investigated the effectiveness of the use of a custom-made negative pressure wound chamber (NPWC) for the management of diabetic foot ulcers. The NPWC was compared to conventional NPWT with nonadherent wound dressings in a randomized controlled trial of patients with diabetes. Patients with a diabetic foot ulcer were randomized to either a control group (n = 17) who used standard NPWT with nonadherent wound dressings or an
