The Green Bay Packers have five victories through Week 11, but they still have their eyes set on bigger things. According to ESPN Stats & Information, the Packers have a 40.8 percent chance of making the playoffs in 2013. If they had a 60 percent chance of winning the Super Bowl, they would have clinched the title. A victory over the Denver Broncos on Sunday would give the Packers a 50 percent chance of winning the Super Bowl. For perspective, the Atlanta Falcons are at 65.3 percent to win the Super Bowl, according to ESPN Stats & Information. That number means that the Falcons are the only team with a higher chance of winning the Super Bowl than the Packers. The Dallas Cowboys are second with a 41.1 percent chance. As they gear up for a game against the top-seeded Broncos, the Packers can continue to build on their success. Fantasy Tip: The Packers have been inconsistent lately, but they are still the favorites in the NFC North. Fantasy owners should start the No. 2 quarterback in Aaron Rodgers, as he is the starter and the only option on the offense. Kenny Clark: Packers have 'more upside' than Seahawks Packers LB Kenny Clark compares himself to Seahawks NT Bobby Wagner Kenny Clark and Bobby Wagner are projected to be the top defensive tackles drafted in the 2013 NFL draft. But which of them is better? Newser is a USA TODAY content partner providing general news, commentary and coverage from around the Web. Its content is produced independently of USA TODAY. Sharing a hotel room with strangers is a terrifying experience. After all, you might not be able to afford to cancel your stay at the last minute and it would be a major hassle to relocate to a new place. Of course, you can just make sure that you will never share a room with strangers in the first place. Well, we're here to tell you that there are certain ways in which you can protect yourself against this nightmare and avoid sharing a hotel room with random people. We've listed out five things that you can do to protect yourself from the awkwardness of sharing a room with a stranger.

1. Ask about extra blankets, pillows, and other supplies The last thing you want is for your new roomie to throw a small blanket onto your bed, only to discover that it was, in fact, a pair of undergarments. While we're on the subject of pillows, do not under any circumstances allow your new roomie to use your pillow as a backrest. It's just not acceptable to share a bed with a stranger.
2. Make sure that you have a phone number If you have an answering machine in your room, you might want to get rid of it. All you need is a couple of minutes to make sure that the random person who called doesn't hang up.
3. Check whether you share a bathroom with other guests While your sharing a bathroom with your roomie will not be an uncommon occurrence, you will want to make sure that you have a bathroom of your own to use. So, be sure that you don't share a bathroom with anyone else.
4. Be nice to
