Michaela Rose The
recipe for a dream home may be simple — find a house, fix it up, make it your own — but when it comes to houses on wheels, a dream home is a lot more complex. Basically, anything with wheels is a towable, and with a towable comes more equipment and more potential problems.

“A towable has more stuff — more electrical, gas, steering, braking, hydraulic, suspension, brake, all those things,” says Mike Schmitt, vice president of internal affairs at G & B Towing. “Plus, you’re also dealing with corrosion, so that’s a whole other slew of problems. “Plus, you have the weight issue, which takes a lot of work to get that kind of thing towed,” Schmitt says. “A towable is pretty heavy.”

In honor of the slew of towable-related problems, G&B Towing in Wilkes-Barre is offering a class on towable maintenance and repair. The class, entitled “RV Maintenance and Repair,” is presented by Mike Schmitt and Bobby McClelland of G & B Towing. It will be held 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8 at the Wilkes-Barre Cultural Center, 140 Washington St. The class is open to the public and costs $25. “It’s just meant to be an overview,” Schmitt says.

“We want people to understand how these things work.” The class covers many topics, including towable chassis structure, electrical system, safety, and travel. “Most towables are kind of ‘jury-rigged’ and not very well constructed,” says Schmitt. “You have to understand the chassis and how it works and just kind of figure it out from there. Then it's getting in and working on all the little stuff, things like brakes, steering, suspension." Schmitt says that over the years G & B has worked on many towables in Wilkes-Barre and in the surrounding areas. “A lot of people don’t have the time, money, or abilities
