Accessibility of the national geological report database and the ASTER spaceborne global land cover (GLC) project Bollie Yvonne Sharples Rebecca Allan Christiana In order to improve the accessibility of the national geological report database and the ASTER spaceborne global land cover (GLC) project, we introduce the fact that the database and project are already provided in localised format on the Department of Science and Information Technology (DSIT) website. Where relevant, we make links to the website for each of the 6 areas. ASTER Project Aster is a global land cover map first produced by NASA in 1992 that uses 6-band satellite data acquired by their ERS-2, ERS-1, and ENVISAT satellites. The National Geological Report Database (NGRD) NGRD is a database that contains information on rocks and deposits in South Africa's continental regions (Western, Central, Eastern, Northern and Karoo). The NGRD will be developed into a searchable catalogue for mineral and rock data of the Eastern Cape, Northern Cape, Western Cape, Free State, North West, Gauteng, Mpumalanga and KwaZulu-Natal provinces. The ASTER website The ASTER GLC website contains an interactive map allowing users to view GLC data and other ASTER data products by clicking on the map. The Mapping Framework for the ASTER GLC project is available in the link below. The NGRD website The NGRD website consists of several areas that deal with a range of NGRD related information, such as, production volumes and species by geological unit and trends over time. In other areas, relevant NGRD data is aggregated and the

When we create the application, we have a certain budget which we can put in the different functionalities. For instance, in library we have a budget of $100 to cover ten $10 book from the catalogue. The budget set to $100 will cover the number of books added in the catalogue. But, we can adjust the budget for example, in the number of books available in the catalogue. As such, after the creation of the catalogue, we can set the budget to $150 or $100 to cover only one or two books in the catalogue. There is an option to filter books to manage and control the document types and the format for documents. There is also a way to adjust the categories and filter the users. It is also possible to hide some categories. When we open the catalog, the available budget is always displayed with the budgets that have been set. Moreover, before each record we have the budget used, which is used to limit the search. When the budget is used, a warning message will be displayed in the catalogue with the items that we have not got budget for. The application can be used to publish the applications. It supports HTML5, CSS3 and Bootstrap with a few minor tweaks, the above mentioned libraries, book management, category management, setting defaults, a plugin that provides the ability to add an image as header, a stats plugin and a simple blog management. Add Publishing: The publishing interface allows adding the application publishing and offering the application to users. It also allows you to make sure that the application can be viewed and downloaded on the book management. The Add Publishing interface is designed by using the Ionic framework, which makes the application visually beautiful. To add the application, simply head over to the App Store in the book management and choose New.
