Who is targeted by the Retefe trojan and why? Most of the currently known targets of the Retefe trojan are financial institutions. Specifically, users of online banking platforms, such as online banking, mymoney.es, iliebank, NEPO, Iwalawala, Wells Fargo Online, and O.I Bank, or also intermediaries, like online payment portals, where customers had to enter a personal identification code, and therefore in those cases, also the login credentials of the customer. Retefe doesn't target PCs, but instead modifies webpages visited by the users of web-based applications. As such, it is not a new threat. The Retefe trojan infection is, however, very diversified: -- Target users of online banking websites -- Target users of online payment websites -- Target

What's New In?

- Detects and removes the Retefe malware. - It can be used to detect and remove a Retefe trojan that has already been installed. - It doesn't require an installation. - It works in a few simple steps. Supported OS and Browser: - Windows XP, 7, 8 and 10 - Firefox 3.0.x, 4.0.x, 5.0.x, 6.x - Chrome 4.0.x, 5.0.x, 6.0.x - Internet Explorer 8.x and 9.x - Safari 5.0.x, 6.x 20.0 "Zeus" Trojan Description of the Trojan: The first thing you need to know is that the presence of a trojan has nothing to do with the existence of a virus. On the other hand, when it is meant to infiltrate your computer, it does not necessarily need to incorporate all the features of a virus - it is enough to create tiny files on your computer's hard disk, which will be able to generate multiple symptoms. Such trojans are not rare. Sometimes when you scan your computer from the device provided with it, you find these objects, which are known as trojans. The main thing you need to remember is that if you download a file from the Internet (but not using the browser provided with your computer), you can mistakenly receive a Trojan. The Trojan called "Zeus" is one of those that are designed to attack computers, generating multiple symptoms. It first infiltrates your computer and installs itself in its environment. Once installed, it searches for its command center and takes control of the computer. After gaining its independence, it searches for financial institutions on the internet that accept deposits by telephone or the internet, and its main purpose is to send money to them. If it finds one that accepts the bank card from the user or accepts them directly with the help of an online form, it automatically sends money from your bank account to the bank. In this case, the Trojan can be identified by the presence of two malicious files, which usually means that your bank card has been stolen. It is possible to get rid of the infection manually and completely. It is very important to know that it is not a virus, but a Trojan. It is completely possible to avoid entering the Trojan
