For the World Cup, FIFA developed its own version of “HyperMotion” and FIFA World Cup Soccer will be powered by the new game engine for the first time. Uncover the secrets of the most important sporting tournament in the world with FIFA World Cup Soccer, the first FIFA game to integrate complete motion capture data generated from real-life FIFA players playing a complete high-intensity match. During the FIFA World Cup, all the broadcast teams will be collecting the footage from local friendlies to help FIFA edit the World Cup highlights. Compete to win your country’s first FIFA World Cup trophy and show the world what you’re made of by winning all the matches in the tournament. Swipe, pull, and flick with your controller to control the action on the pitch as your country’s best players compete for glory. Real-life players, locations, and stadium: the FIFA World Cup comes to life like never before. More than 70 officially licensed teams and nations, 11 stadiums (not including the four in the Showmatch mode) and more than 10,000 players, all available for your country to compete with. The World Cup will unfold with a variety of different gameplay modes, including Classic, Exhibition, Showmatch, and the new Game-Show mode, in which up to eight players take on opposing teams in fast, high-intensity matches with AI-controlled opponents. Play Champions' Cup: a mode in which a single player competes in any one of the 10 teams' matches in the tournament. In addition, a couple of quick matches are included against AI opponents. Play Showmatch: a new multiplayer mode in which up to 8 players compete against AI opponents in 2v2 matches. Play Exhibition: a single player matches mode in which players compete in the tournament in 4-5 matches against 9 AI-controlled teams to see who can earn the most points. Play the Classic mode: a return to FIFA's old-school game play, with up to 8 players competing in 2-vs-2 matches for points. The first season of the UEFA Europa League has come to a close and the new 2016/17 season is beginning. There are very few main competitions as players don't start to play in the tournament until September. The first matches of the new season are played in the UEFA
