The present invention pertains generally to the repair of vehicular glass and more particularly to such repair using laser ablation. It is known in the repair of vehicular windshields to use various bonding agents to a find agents used as optically clear adhesive glass or hot melt adhesive. In windshields that are too damaged to be repaired, such as in the case of partially or totally collapsed windshields, the entire windshield must be removed, for example, by a robotic repair device before such adhesive repairs can be effected. Applicant has discovered a repair method and apparatus are particularly useful in the repair of windshields damaged from hail and the like. The present invention provides a method for laser ablation of the front surface of a vehicular windshield to prepare it for repair or the replacement thereof. The method comprises the steps of providing a laser with an output beam which is shaped or directed such that a
