windowsQ: How can I manage session cookie when Liferay's SiteCatalyst reporting program is used? I'm developing a web site that uses Liferay CMS. Some of the pages use the ad services provided by SiteCatalyst. In the page_view method of one of my page controller class, I'm loading the sitecatalyst

report like this: String url =
getRequest().getRequestURL();
String queryString =
getRequest().getQueryString(); if (queryString != null) { url += getURLParam(QUERY_PARAM_KEY, queryString); } else { url += getURLParam(PAGE_PARAM_KEY, getRequest().getPathInfo()); }

QueryParam is defined in Liferay Web Framework as follows:

@WebParam("queryParams") public String getQueryParam(String key) { return
getConfig().getParameter(key); }

Thus, I don't have to pass parameters in the URLs if it's a session. But SiteCatalyst needs a session cookie on the client side to send the report to the server.
