This morning I awoke at 12am feeling a little woozy, feeling like I might be coming down with something, so I laid down and went back to sleep. I woke up feeling much better, so I read a couple of emails, put on some coffee and then walked my dogs. I remembered that it was the day I was supposed to get my updates from the doctor, so I called them to see if I could get some in before the one at 11am. I came out with my update and the new Dr. told me that there were some things I needed to do on my own before seeing him. She said to drink lots of water and eat lots of fruit and vegetables, and drink copious amounts of fluids. I already had on my agenda for that day was to make sure that I ate some fruit before coming to the doctor. I did that, along with some snack food, because I was in no position to not eat something. I also had many fruit juices at work and at home all day. So I planned on coming in with a healthy diet and lifestyle and then coming out with the thing. Well, I ended up eating and drinking more than

What's New in the Creative MediaSource Plugin For CD Burner?

Burn your MP3 CDs using MediaSource Transfer technology. With this plugin you can format your CD discs (up to 700MB), and create TOC, cover and instruction pages for CDs. The created disc will play in the standard portable CD player or in a normal CD-player. You can also burn your own set of instructions on a page of your own printer. You can also print your own cover for each track and print the text "Artist" and "Genre". You can also record the data onto your CD-RW and print the track names as the names of your tracks. If you are a normal user you can use the tray icon to start a CD. If you are a MediaSource user it's also possible to use the tray icon to start a CD. It also works for any application that makes use of the Standard File Formats, like XP Media Player or Windows Media Player. You can burn up to 2 times data on each CD track. If you select CD 1 as the master, you burn at a lower data rate. You can also have as much or as few tracks on your CD as you like. You can add the extra tracks after you burned the first one, even if it's not complete. It can also share data from Internet-based sources like The Pirate Bay, TuneCore or Pitchfork (you can use any of these sources with this plugin, not just The Pirate Bay). Note: You can download the plugin CD Burner is not affiliated with the author. It's available for free download and no charges is made. P.S. If you are a Windows XP user and the CD Burner does not work, try the CDBurnerXP Free Pack. CDBurnerXP will enable CDBurner to also burn on XP CD-RW and Audio CDs as well.
