During the match, an elite FIFA World Cup squad played the final of the 2018 FIFA World Cup, entering the field with opportunities to score and the whole action captured with motion capture suits. By the final whistle, the winning team scored 13 goals to the losing team's five. The FIFA World Cup squad's performance is used to create the game's Ultimate Team mode, featuring a large variety of player shapes, sizes, and technical skills, with more than 25,000 possible combinations, including transfers, fantasy leagues, and player ratings. For the Ultimate Team matchmaking, players will also be ranked by their real-life performance. The present invention generally relates to a fuel cell stack, and more particularly to a fuel cell stack containing solid polymer electrolyte membrane which is reduced in water content to enhance its durability. Recent years, the search for an alternative energy source has increased. In this regard, fuel cells have attracted attention as a new type of clean energy source. A fuel cell produces electricity by a chemical reaction between oxygen and hydrogen contained in fuel. Hydrogen is generally stored in the form of a hydrogen gas. In a fuel cell, a hydrogen gas is supplied to a cathode, and an oxygen gas is supplied to an anode. Oxygen in the anode is ionized and becomes oxygen ions. The oxygen ions react with hydrogen in the cathode to produce water. The hydrogen ions produced in the cathode react with oxygen ions in the anode to produce water. The electric power can be used as a power source for electric products. The fuel cell may be used in a vehicle in which a fuel cell vehicle (FCV) is driven by only a hydrogen fuel. A liquid-type hydrogen tank in which the hydrogen is stored is generally used as a source of hydrogen in the FCV. However, it is difficult to use the liquid-type hydrogen tank, and it is difficult to continuously supply hydrogen. If the liquid-type hydrogen tank is employed, hydrogen is supplied from the liquid-type hydrogen tank only while the vehicle is parked. On the other hand, a fuel cell stack produces electricity by electrochemical reaction. In the fuel cell stack, hydrogen is supplied from the hydrogen gas which is stored in a hydrogen gas tank. Hydrogen is supplied to the stack along with air which is taken from the air in the vehicle. In this manner, electricity can be supplied to the vehicle. Meanwhile, a solid polymer electrolyte membrane has been proposed and used as an electrolyte membrane in a
