[The role of histone methylation in the development of human breast cancer]. The aim of the work was to study and compare methylation levels of H3K4, H3K27 and H3K36 in the chromatin from tissue of breast tumors and histologically normal tissue. A total of 34 samples of histologically normal breast tissue and breast tumors were studied. It was revealed that the histone methylation levels of H3K4, H3K27 and H3K36 were significantly increased in the chromatin from the tissue of breast tumors compared to the levels of these modifications in the tissue from the histologically normal breast. In all cases the histone methylation of H3K4 and H3K27 was the lowest, while the highest methylation level of H3K36 was determined in the tissue of histologically normal breast. It was assumed that methylation of H3K4 and H3K27 could play a role in the formation and development of tumors of breast tissue. Q: How to access the array value of a ViewBag object in a controller action in asp.net mvc? I am using ViewBag, for example: ViewBag.user = new List() { "user1", "user2" }; And i want to access the values of the array in a Controller action like this: if (ViewBag.user == null) return; but I got error with that line! A: you can always access the list with @Html.Raw(ViewBag.user) like this: if (@Html.Raw(ViewBag.user)) { // access the values you want } A: Simply use @Html.Raw() which will output your array to the view page. You could also use @Html.Raw(string.Join(",", ViewBag.user)) for an alternative approach if it is too much for the view to output. But if you really want to do it in the controller, have a look at this question. In the 1970's, the technological revolution of the IBM PC revolutionized computer graphics by adding color, processing power and storage. We're Almost Ready for the Kids It's never really been a secret that fans of the Brandy<sup>1</sup> Cumberland County Choir are pretty darn excited about the upcoming release of the choir's debut album "On This Side of Heaven". In this edition of "On This Side of Heaven" the six-member choir opens with the memorable track, "Swimmin'". The song is an upbeat and catchy tune that portrays life with childlike innocence as the members sing about "swimmin' in the ocean". In a separate interview with "The Musician's Store", choir director Patty Bolgiaza shared that the song is inspired by the individual personalities of the six members of the choir. Another noteworthy track on the album is "Dive Into The Sun" which features Alicia Meyer on backing vocals. This song is an upbeat and passionate message about being in love, and of course about dancing. For those of you who have heard the single, you'll know that Alicia's vocal range is incredible and she does a fantastic job on this song. The single will be released on May 31, and the choir has released two videos from the album. One can be seen on the choir's<sup>1</sup> YouTube page, and it features a portion of the rehearsal of "On This Side of Heaven". The other video features the choir singing the single, "Dive Into the Sun". Finally, on April 21 the choir will perform the album at the Girl Night Out at the White Elephant in Fredonia. The album release party will be hosted by local DJ John Cardenias with a performance from Down With Me, a band from the Fredericksburg area. The choir was founded in January of 2011 when directors Patty Bolgiaza and Angela Monroe noticed a group of high school musicians were playing together almost every week, and seemed to have a great time doing it. They decided to form a group to play together for fun, and to perhaps someday find someone willing to invite them to perform at a festival, church or other big event. In February of 2012, that person was the Methodist Church of Cranesville, and the request came to do the Piedmont Region Youth Choir Festival. At that festival, they were immediately noticed by radio personality Rod Ogren, who happened to be at the festival and heard the group and immediately asked to have them join the Frederick County Choir. The choir was created with only a
