Liquid Desktop is a screensaver and a background photo viewer with tons of different effects. It is built with performance in mind. Legacy is a freely available Windows-based workgroup-aware security tool that helps to protect your data in case of an Office outage, or when a USB flash disk or external hard disk is unexpectedly disconnected. It is designed to run on a server, or on a full blown Windows machine. You can select the type of virus definitions to be loaded and the time period over which they are checked. You can even define a schedule, under which a check is performed daily, weekly, monthly or on demand. Legacy takes advantage of the Microsoft OLE DB library to work with several databases, and it can be used to access the Exchange servers remotely. It also has a built-in Scheduler which can be used to write options for Legacy. A visual interface is available under Windows XP, Windows 7, and Windows 8. It is a fairly small installer, weighing in at just about 2 MB. It also has a 14-day trial period. Legacy's interface allows you to easily start the scanning process. It has a progress bar and a log displaying the status of the scan. You can also see the type of files being scanned. If you select the "A/V Virus" or "System Virus" feature, Legacy can present you with a list of infected objects, in a simple list, and a detailed layout of the infected item. On the left of the interface, you can see the so-called "Labels", which are basically key-value pairs. Underneath, you can see the scheduled tasks that are available to you. All actions are listed in the order in which you performed them. You can perform all actions at once by clicking "Scan all the Labels at once". Legacy's interface also displays the available files and folders. You can filter the list using the "Supplied" option. Under the listing, you may see the most recently edited files and folders. If you have any reservations about an object, clicking it will provide you with the path, the last date it was edited, its size and the creation date. Under Windows 7 or Windows 8, you will need to click on the "Settings" icon, then the "View details" link, to add the computer you want to scan to your legacy collection. The liquid desktop is a desktop wallpaper and screensaver that allows you to vary the amount of water that is pumped through the wallpaper. Liquid is a robotic particle system. As the water is pumped through the wallpaper, it creates waves, which you can control by using the tablet. As water is added to the sensor below the wallpaper, it raises the waves to the top of the wallpaper. There are four waves with different sizes. You can start the water pumping at your preferences (mini, medium and large water pump, and a static picture). The water waves are only generated when you move the screen around. You can also move the screen without the water waves to give you a more static wallpaper. Waves behave very differently depending on where they appear in the wallpaper. It is also possible to have one wave live in a special place in the wallpaper and make its size smaller, while the rest of the wallpaper becomes water. On Windows 7, 8 and 8.1 you can open a manual page inside the program, which explains the program in detail. Highlights: - Several wallpapers and backgrounds (Nero, Alien, neon, mosaic, travel, drift, dittot, Ditot, satellite, dolphin, fish, natural, sunset, spring, whale, power line, green, water, garden and wedding) - Wallpaper, screensaver, music and video player - Several color themes - Fx image composition - The most beautiful image generator in the world! Use our high quality hd features to convert any image into a liquid one! - Many other features Story Liquid Screensaver is a great screensaver that has a beautiful story mode. In the screensaver, people are buying and selling stuffs in the market place. The most recent transactions are shown in the region of the screen. A new item is shown each time you press the space bar. The buyer and the seller are shown in the upper and lower portions of the screen, respectively. The scenes from the location will be shown in the upper and lower portions. The new transactions must be read from top to bottom or bottom to top, so watch out if you buy or sell while the total price list is still visible. Stored items appear on the scene one by one. You can view the list of items by pressing the '1' button. You can press the space bar to unlock the scene for one second. You can also press the
