just that he could win the nomination and he did, and then there was so many of the moderates that had backed him that they didn't want to see him be president anymore. Bouie: Yeah. I mean, I think if he just accepted the fact that he couldn't win the nomination, and then he also had this idea that he could still run for the Senate or mayor or some other local offices or just senator. He did it during the 1980s. He did it during the 2000s. It didn't work. But clearly, he wanted to make the pivot. He wanted to pivot for sure, and he wanted to pivot for whatever reason. But it was clear that he wanted to pivot, clearly. So, it wasn't just that the primary voters, and the caucus voters, voted against him. I think at some point, he just felt that way about it. Jason Cherkis: So, he never accepted the fact that he lost. And that's where I think in a lot of ways, people were affected by whether or not they thought he accepted it or didn't accept it or rationalized it. My question is with that pivot, what was the time line? How much did the rest of the staff see it happen in real time, and then how much, was it a top-down process? Bouie: Yeah. Well, we saw it play out. And at the same time, we saw what an incredibly isolated and lonely man he was. That he couldn't deal with. He was so trapped by his own mind. Then he also had this incredibly tyrannical leadership style where he would go into these meetings, and he would always be like, "I'm going to impose my will." And that's how I think the staff was just constantly wondering like, "OK, this is a man who we need to get out of office as soon as possible, or do something." And so, that was when there was a

Here's my problem: The client is expecting a set of information including this: `var list = (IList)Session["myList"];` The server-side code for posting data is like this: `[WebMethod] [ScriptMethod(ResponseFormat = ResponseFormat.Json)] public string Post([FromBody]IList list) { // do something return "Success"; }` But when I post data, this error occurs in the client side: `InvalidOperationException: Cross-thread operation not valid: Control 'btnNewContact' accessed from a thread other than the thread it was created on.` On some posts, I found this: `var list = (IList)Session["myList"]; Session["myList"] = list;` But I'm not sure if it's working or not. So, please help me. Thank you in advance. A: You do not need to use `session["myList"]` directly - just convert it to
