Harta Haram Muamalat Kontemporer. Co-publishing of theQ: Designing a layout for 3 columns How would you design a layout with 3 columns. Something similar to the Google Play layout in app info page. In the example below, only the first 2 columns are visible. You can see the 3rd column with texts that is under the first 2 columns. I am trying to achieve this using a table but facing problems. A: take a look at RelativeLayout, the use RelativeLayout, the use the android:layout_centerInParent attribute to align the views. if you want a vertically centered 3 views, you can use a TableLayout, put the view in the center of the table as before and apply android:gravity="center". Alternatively just apply center as in the centerInParent example. Risk of second malignancies following treatment of childhood acute lymphoblastic leukemia. To estimate the cumulative incidence of second malignant neoplasms after cessation of therapy for childhood acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL), we linked 6 European childhood cancer registries with information on the therapy used in each registry. We computed the cumulative incidence of second malignancies by using the cohort of 7,586 survivors of acute lymphoblastic leukemia at 12 centers
