Windows 7 USB Diagnostic.--- abstract: 'In this paper, we present the GAMES (Globally Adaptive Markov Elementary Sequences) family of learning algorithms for sequential and interactive models with environments showing local patterns (e.g. noisy Markov random fields, $\\epsilon$-machines, Bayesian networks). The method exploits the locality of Markov models on the base of the Markov tree that encodes the conditional probability distribution. As a result, it can be executed in a distributed fashion without traversing the entire model. Interestingly, GAMES have an operational interpretation in the probabilistic viewpoint of sequence learning and correspond to the variant of the Expectation-Maximization algorithm which explicitly assumes that the observations follow a distribution matching the model. The main contribution of the paper is a generalization of the variational inference algorithm belief propagation which does not require any assumption on the observation model.' author: - | Francesco Fascoli\\ Cognitive Systems and Robotics Lab, CNR-IEIIT\\ The Italian Institute for Intelligent Systems, Italian National Research Council\\ `francesco.fascoli@cnr-ieiit.it`\\ Marco Garro [^1]\\ Cognitive Systems and Robotics Lab, CNR-IEIIT\\ The Italian Institute for Intelligent Systems, Italian National Research Council\\ `marco.garro@cnr-ieiit.it`\\ Aldo Piantanida\\ Cognitive Systems and Robotics Lab, CNR-IEIIT\\ The Italian Institute for Intelligent Systems, Italian National Research Council\\ `aldo.piantanida@cnr-ieiit.it`\\ Laureano Ramponi\\ d0c515b9f4
