Each of the sites has a downtime that is tolerable for a given amount of time (eg: up to 1 hour). There are 7 sites. I want to make sure that no site gets continuously served for 1 hour (up to a maximum of 1 hour). So I need to do a "round-robin" between sites. The plan is to have a load balancer that will treat the 7 sites as the nodes in a ring, and place an idle site on top of an occupied one. If a site goes offline for 1 hour, the load balancer will place it on the bottom of the list of all sites. The question is, how do I figure out which site should go first? My previous plan was to round-robin between the first 7 sites and the last 7 sites. I'm not sure this is the best solution though. A: ROUND ROBIN (RR) is a simple strategy. Like you said, round robin will make sure that the same site gets visited in a cyclic fashion. Your question is probably not clear. Maybe you can help the TLDR version? TLDR: Round robin is based on the assumption that data is not lost. There are a few more variations on the RR theme like algorithm based round robin (AARR) and alternate two together (AT2) AARR and AT2 are even more complicated than Round Robin. Try to read up a bit on it. Resources: <https://medium.com/web-development/guide-to-rr-round-robin-web-servers-for-real-world-guidance-50c1498acb4> You might want to build on RR as you can implement a queue and a policy that makes sure that there is a good contact between sites. You can read up on these solutions here Stackoverflow: Implementing Round Robin algorithm using C++ Also read: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Round-robin\_algorithm package org.jesus.app.ui.fragment; import android.graphics.Color; import android.os.Bundle; import android.support.annotation.Nullable; import android.view.View; import android.widget.Button; import android.widget.EditText; import android.widget.ImageView; import android.widget.ProgressBar; import android.widget.TextView; import android.widget.Toast; import org.jesus.app.R; import org.jesus.app.base.BaseFragment; import org.jesus.app.base.util.AppPreferences; import org.jesus.app.di.injector.AppComponent; import org.jesus.app.ui.activity. 5ec8ef588b
