the device on the bottom. The options to load the file is available in the “File” section, while the “Processing” unit has an area for directly open the bootloader. Now, this method will bring the Odin home to select the file. Here, you must select the desired file from the device files, choose the desired file from the Android file explorer. By default, the Odin team has set the default location to. For example, in the Windows OS, the boot folder is located at "C: drive" While at the Samsung service center, Samsung Odin has produced complete inventory of your Samsung phone. Your personal data will remain confidential. However, the team has sold some parts on line, without the launch of Samsung Odin service center. Therefore, do not download the tools from these sources. Finally, after this, you will find the Odin home screen. Select the file that you want to flash, the Odin home screen will pop up at the bottom of the screen. After selecting the file, your phone will reboot, and then it will be ready for the permanent customization.

Odin is a professional Samsung Odin tool, it can support most of Samsung phones. users can not only can flash their device but can also block process, repair boot, get recovery and many other functions of device. use Odin at first time? dont worry, we get you. Ok, we have passed the tutorial, but now lets move onto the step by step guide. For this guide, we will be using the latest version of the Odin tool.

The users have to be downloading or downloading it from one of these sites: Just drag the files you want to install into the Odin file browser window. Don't forget to choose the correct file types! Use the left and right arrow buttons to browse files and select/deselect the files you want. Use the slider to set the size of the partition you want to flash. Hold down the Vol down, Home, Power buttons while you are in the menu. This will put you in Odin's bootloader menu. This is the custom recovery menu. Choose the option for a "Script" or "Auto-Script" and point to the new zip file with your custom kernel. Accept the warning, make sure "Script to bootloader" is chosen and the custom recovery menu should appear. You are now ready to reboot. Now remove the SD card, and insert it into the computer. Just as the recovery is on the SD card, so too is the firmware that you just flashed. Thus, Odin has a method of flashing the recovery and the firmware in one step. So, now let's load the firmware you flashed into recovery. Your computer will recognize the card and will install the custom firmware onto the internal flash memory within the phone. This should be a hardware change. If everything worked

---

correctly, you should see a boot screen on your phone. If your phone boots successfully, you have successfully modified the firmware on your phone.
