When the course starts, a dedicated AOPA tutor will guide each school through the online course materials.

AOPA course instructors develop material for each school based on their learners needs and resources available in the school and individually assign each learner each step on the path to success. We allow about 20 weeks to complete the project, so this would be an ideal time to teach a high school for students interested in UAS. Answering the suggested questions may be an easy method of assessing your knowledge of essential tools when flying but be warned, there are some really tricky questions. And as they say, if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. Videospot is one of the big platforms that is coming, and offers some great bells and whistles for online (and offline) learning.

Videospot was founded in 2009 and today offers free online course videos and tutorials from the likes of Khan Academy, Lynda.com and Udemy. Pilots know that the safety of the general public and fellow pilots is the most important aspect of their duties. Pilots should be held to high standards in terms of their courtesy, conduct and safety information they provide to other pilots and the public. AOPA continues to develop its members' knowledge of and compliance with aviation-related laws, including the Federal Aviation Regulations. To achieve and maintain high-level piloting skills, pilots should study the rules of the Airspace as they apply to the various aircraft types they fly. AOPA developed a new, high school Aviation STEM Curriculum, which offers students
